

FRANCES KEEVIL GALLERY

SEASON BY SEASON

Lucy Hennessy 10 August – 24 August 2010

This exhibition represents a poetic stroll through the seasons; it is an invitation to roam and crisscross the seasons as one might in a dream.

Lucy provides the viewer with a chance to enjoy and celebrate the beauty of the ephemeral and transitory, and to savour the moment and recognise the passing of time. Her landscapes are deeply felt and interspersed with nuances of light and dark...vast fields; bright colourful spring gardens; the shifting patterns of the skies; the leaves of autumn; and the never-ending blue of the ocean. These works celebrate moments which are certain to fade and cherish that which is fragile and impermanent.

Lucy is a narrative painter. Her figures tell a story but melt into the elements surrounding them. In this group of paintings Lucy has explored the subtle journey of human feeling connected to each season. The colours and seasons are brought together with simple connections to figures in a tribute to the beauty of that which is destined to disappear but return again.

‘mono no aware’ – the poignant loveliness of fragile things.
